

A stormy horizon

Brookline, Mass.: The mayor's office said climate projections assume inaction, but there's hope because New York City is acting ("Waves of fear loom," Feb. 18). Sorry, no. NYC by itself can't reduce emissions enough. This mess is too big. Instead, city residents must convince New York State's entire congressional delegation to support bipartisan legislation. We need national action. Judy Weiss

LINK