

Brown's record says it all

In a recent Sun editorial, you wrote that Scott Brown has defined himself as a U.S. senator. Indeed, he has: He has voted to maintain oil and gas tax subsidies, voted to prevent the military from developing its own clean energy sources to save soldiers' lives, voted to prevent the EPA from setting limits on carbon pollution, voted against the development of clean-energy programs that would create jobs in Massachusetts, refuses to discuss or even acknowledge climate change, and refuses to consider serious legislation to deal with this problem.

Please find out what Elizabeth Warren would do about climate change. It is hard to believe anyone could have a worse attitude and track record than Scott Brown.
