

Climate change nonpartisan

Mr. J.L. Spray opposes Dr. Sabalka joining Lincoln's Air Pollution Control Advisory Board ("Republican Party opposes environmentalist for air pollution advisory board," Oct. 13). Here's a question, if a child has asthma, would parents refuse to go to the best doctor if that doctor voted differently than them or belonged to another church? If you want your child to get the best medical care when sick, don't you want the best people sitting on the pollution control board so the child avoids sickness?

I've never met Lucas Sabalka. I have met thousands of doctors, lawyers, Exxon employees, energy experts, economists, realtors, engineers, bankers, students, Democrats, Republicans, Independents, Jews, Evangelicals, teachers and preachers, all members of Citizens' Climate Lobby. They're thoughtful, helpful, respectful, gracious, grateful people. They volunteer their time to serve the greater good.

Mr. Spray also cares about the greater good, worrying that people who support a national carbon tax threaten his community with more taxes. Mr. Spray should consider attending one meeting of the local Citizens' Climate Lobby chapter.

Find out why CCL agrees with you, and why CCL wants your input to guarantee climate policy won't hurt your community. We want America's climate policy to protect all children, our climate, and our pocketbooks.

Just one meeting.

Rabbi Judy Weiss, Brookline, Mass.
